

"A HOLIDAY DINNER AT THE MANSION" . . . A holiday tradition plus the Hummel Shoppe
Saturday December 8, 2012 $99

Elyria, No. Olmsted, Middleburg Hts, Independence, Beachwood, Boston Hts, As Applicable

"Gone with the Wind" is known by generations for true "Southern Hospitality". This is never so evident as during the Holidays, with western Pennsylvania's Tara mansion grounds decorated in tiny white lights, dazzling Christmas trees, wreaths, garlands with red velvet bows and antique China dolls decorating the bannisters and adorning the mantelpieces of this elegant Greek Revival-style Inn. It's breathtaking . . . and one of our "warmer" traditions with great dining amidst the Holiday ambiance.

We'll be visiting one of the largest Hummel shops in the country which typically offers works by M.I. Hummel, Lladro, Armani, Fenton, Precious Moments, Royal Doulton, Lenox, Crystal Impressions, Cherished Teddies . . . and many more. We will be viewing the impressive indoor Christmas tree display at Kraynak's in Hermitage. We will also be visiting one of the largest chocolate companies (specializing in hand-dipped chocolates). But it will be the charming Southern Belles in their elegant gowns who make you feel warm and wonderful as we view the rooms of this impressive Inn, just as we are getting into the "holiday spirit". It's a holiday tradition with Great Day!
